Photo of the month

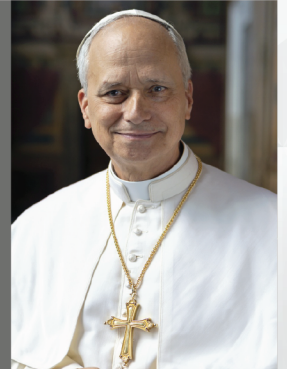

The Aquinas Convocation Ceremony stands as the crowning jewel of the academic year—a sacred celebration of toil and triumph, where the dedication of students and lecturers is honored, and each graduate's journey becomes a story of success. In a moment both solemn and sublime, the Archbishop of Colombo, as Chancellor of Aquinas, bestows his blessing and signature, sealing each graduate's achievement with grace and honor.

Pope's Monthly Intention for July 2025

FOR FORMATION IN DISCERNMENT

Let us pray that we might again learn how to discern, to know how to choose paths of life and reject everything that leads us away from Christ and the Gospel.

Rector's Message

The name of this month, July, traces its origins to ancient Rome. It was originally called Sextilis in Latin but was renamed in the 8th century BC to honor Julius Caesar, in recognition of his birth month. As history recalls the legacy of great leaders and transformative eras, July invites us to pause and reflect on the deeper truths shaping our own lives.

In the Church's liturgical calendar, July is dedicated to the Precious Blood of Jesus, a profound symbol of His sacrificial love. It reminds us that Christ's suffering and death were not in vain but are the wellspring of our salvation. During this month, we are invited to meditate on the mystery of His Passion and to pray the Novena to the Precious Blood of Jesus, making acts of reparation and consecrating ourselves anew to His mercy. As we enter July, let us ask for the grace to open our hearts more deeply to the love of Jesus and to live lives marked by gratitude, reparation, and thanksgiving.

July marks a time of mid-year reflection and global celebration, offering a moment for both pause and festivity. Across the world, national holidays such as Independence Day in the United States (July 4), Canada Day (July 1), and Bastille Day in France (July 14) invite communities to honor their histories and embrace a spirit of unity and pride.

In Sri Lanka, the month of July brings a vibrant blend of spiritual and cultural observances that reflect the island's deep religious heritage and communal harmony. Highlights include the grand Esala Perahera in Kandy, a sacred procession honoring the Sacred Tooth Relic of the Buddha, and the Esala Full Moon Poya, commemorating the Buddha's first sermon and the founding of the Sangha. Devotees across faiths also gather for the Kataragama Festival, marked by intense acts of devotion and interfaith reverence. These observances, rich in ritual and tradition, embody the spiritual heart of the nation during this sacred month.

At Aquinas, July marks the beginning of the second semester for our academic community, as it does in many institutions. Students and educators return with renewed energy and a spirit of purpose—ready to engage deeply in the life of the mind and heart. It is a moment to recommit to the pursuit of knowledge, to embrace new ideas with courage and curiosity, and to continue growing in both character and intellect.

Environmentally, Sri Lanka experiences its southwest monsoon season in July, a vital time for the island's agriculture and natural replenishment. It reminds us of our responsibility to care for creation with respect and stewardship.

May this July be a month of grace, growth, and gratitude for all in our Aquinas family.

Convocation 2025

Address of the Rector at the Convocation on June 03, 2025

Your Eminence Malcolm Cardinal Ranjith, Archbishop of Colombo and Chancellor of Aquinas College of Higher Studies, Very Rev. Fathers, Rev. Fathers, Rev. Sisters, Registrar, Professors, Deans, Academic Heads, Lecturers, Academic and Non-Academic Staff, Silver Jubilarian, Graduates, and Parents, It is with great joy and gratitude that I welcome Your Eminence Malcolm Cardinal Ranjith, our beloved Archbishop and Chancellor. Your presence is a great honour to us, and we are deeply grateful for your enduring affection, wise leadership, and your mission of reconciliation and communion in Christ. We thank you for accepting our invitation to preside over this special occasion as our Chancellor for the conferment of degrees.

I extend a heartfelt welcome to all the new graduates.

I warmly welcome parents and everyone here today to celebrate the achievements of our sons and daughters.

This 15th convocation of Aquinas College is especially meaningful to me, as I mark my fourth year as Vice-Chancellor. Today, we officially confer 145 bachelor's degrees, and across these two days, a total of 1,715 students will receive their academic diplomas—a testament to the continued excellence and growth of our institution.

Dear Graduates,

Congratulations on your remarkable achievement and the strength of character you've displayed along the way. Your dedication, perseverance, and resilience have brought you to this proud milestone, and today we celebrate not only your academic success but the person you've become through the journey.

You can take pride in earning a degree that meets international standards, a testament to both your capabilities and commitment. I am deeply proud of all you have accomplished. For many of you, this may be the happiest day of your life—and for your parents, most certainly. They have long awaited this moment, when you step forward as qualified, independent citizens of Sri Lanka, prepared to pursue your dreams and shape the future.

As someone who has walked the same path, I know the journey is not always easy—but it is always worth it. In the words of Nelson Mandela, "Education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world." Go forth and use yours wisely.

Dear Graduates,

You are privileged to graduate from Aquinas College—Sri Lanka’s oldest private, premier Catholic institution, and one of the nation’s most respected centers of higher learning. As you prepare to leave this hall and transition from college life, I invite you to pause and reflect on the profound ways Aquinas has shaped your journey. You have gained knowledge, developed valuable skills, and deepened your understanding of your chosen discipline. Along the way, you’ve also formed bonds of friendship that will endure a lifetime. Most significantly, you’ve cultivated strong moral character, in alignment with our five-year strategic vision: “Be competent and build character.” As you step forward into the world, carry these values with you—and let them guide your efforts to create meaningful, lasting change.

As the educator and philosopher John Dewey once said, “Education is not preparation for life; education is life itself.” May your life ahead be a reflection of all that you have learned and all that you aspire to become.

The society you enter is complex and filled with urgent challenges—economic uncertainty, environmental crises, and moral disorientation. These are not distant issues; they are our shared reality. The path ahead will not be easy, and finding employment may be difficult in the current climate. But these hardships are not of your making. They are the legacy of decades of poor governance, which we must now confront and overcome.

You will be tested—not just in your careers but in your values. I urge you: do not settle for mediocrity. Do not lose your voice in the noise of others’ expectations. Stay true to what you believe in. Follow your heart and your conscience. Pursue further studies. Let this degree be the first step in a lifelong journey of learning. Stand for the truth. Do not let wealth or power erode your ethics. Sri Lanka needs you—your minds, your voices, your courage. You are the generation that can shape a better future. This is your time.

Your Eminence,

With deep respect and a shared sense of purpose, we are pleased to present our vision for where Aquinas should journey in the next five years.

In the words of Rev. Fr. Peter A. Pillai OMI, spoken at our Convocation in March 1960, “Aquinas was founded not merely, as in every university, to provide universal knowledge, but also and especially to promote wisdom.” That vision, articulated over six decades ago under the guidance of His Grace Archbishop Thomas Cooray OMI, continues to resonate today. It reminds us that education is not simply the transfer of information—it is the shaping of intellect, the nurturing of conscience, and the cultivation of character.

As we step into a new chapter, in an era defined by global uncertainty, digital transformation, and complex social dynamics, Aquinas College of Higher Studies must not merely adapt—it must lead. The next five years present a unique opportunity to chart a bold, purposeful course. We are called to build on our foundations with clarity, courage, and compassion.

Our strategic plan, grounded in the Catholic intellectual tradition, envisions Aquinas as a centre of academic excellence and moral leadership. We commit to nurturing the whole person—mind, body, and spirit—by fostering a learning environment rooted in truth, integrity, and service. We aim to cultivate independent thinkers, responsible citizens, and ethical leaders, equipped not only with knowledge but with wisdom.

Since 1954

This plan will prioritize five key pillars: academic innovation, inclusive community, research with impact, sustainable development, and transformative leadership. Through these, we will empower students and faculty to respond creatively to emerging challenges, to embrace technology without losing our humanity, and to serve society with purpose and compassion.

Ultimately, the future of Aquinas is not just about where we are going—it is about who we are becoming. Guided by our mission and inspired by our founders, we shall move forward with a renewed commitment: to form minds that seek truth, hearts that live by justice, and hands that work for the common good.

Let us go forward—together—with faith, wisdom, and vision.

As In closing, I extend my heartfelt gratitude to the clergy, the Registrar, Deans, Heads of Departments, lecturers, and all academic and non-academic staff—both clerical and support—for their steadfast commitment throughout the year and for their efforts in making today's celebration a success.

Congratulations once again to our graduates. May God bless your journey ahead and may you rise to meet the moment with hope, wisdom, and purpose.

To each and every one of you, my sincere thanks. God bless you.
